

Mary L. Collins Award Excellence in Teacher Education 2016

The Mary L. Collins Award for Excellence in Teacher Education is presented each year to an educator who has made significant and substantial contributions to teacher education in Florida. The award, established in 2000, is named for Dr. Mary Collins, Professor of Teacher Education in the Fischler Graduate School of Education at Nova Southeastern University. Dr. Collins is responsible for the revitalization of FATE and has made many contributions to teacher education at the state, regional and national levels.

The nomination must originate from a FATE member. The Standards for Teacher Educators, published by ATE, the Association of Teacher Educators should be taken into consideration when completing the nomination. These standards can be reviewed on the Webpage: http://www.ate1.org/pubs/Distinguished_Teac.cfm

Award Criteria

Standards for this award include, but are not limited to, an educator who:

- Models professional teaching practices which demonstrate knowledge, skills and attitudes reflecting best practice;
- Inquires and contributes to one or more areas of scholarly activity that are related to teaching, learning, and/or teacher education;
- Inquires systematically into, and reflects on, their own practice and demonstrates commitment to lifelong professional development;
- Provides leadership in developing, implementing, and evaluating programs for educating teachers that embrace diversity, and are rigorous, relevant, and grounded in best practice;
- Collaborates regularly with school, university, state education department, professional associations, and community representatives to improve teaching, learning and teacher education;
- Serves as an informed, constructively critical advocate for high quality education for all students, public understanding of educational issues, and excellence and diversity in teaching and teacher education professions; and
- Contributes to improving the teacher education profession.
